The second cycle MA programme in Theatre and Radio Directing is open to enrolment of the following candidates:

1. those that have completed a first cycle study programme in theatre and radio directing, stage acting, dramaturgy, and film and television directing; and to

2. those that have completed a first cycle degree programme in other similar and related fields provided they have fulfilled all study requirements essential for the continuation of their studies in a second cycle programme. These requirements are determined by the Senate of the Academy for different fields of study respectively, and may total from 10 to maximum 60 ECTS. Candidates are eligible to fulfil them during their first cycle study programme, or in the course of life-long learning programme, or by taking exams prior to their enrolment in the second cycle degree programme; and to

3. those that have completed an equivalent study programme abroad; and to

4. those that meet the above requirements (stated in points 1., 2., 3.,) and have passed a talent test, conducted as an interview. The test is graded using the following formula: the talent test grade represents 90% of the total grade, while 10% of the overall grade consists of the average grade total in the first cycle. The talent test includes a draft presentation of a candidate’s project (submitted by the candidate in advance), a CV focusing on the candidate's practical work, and an interview conducted by the test panel.

Pursuant to article no. 36 of the Higher Education Act (published in Ur. I. RS, no. 32/2012) the Academy may offer candidates who have completed a first cycle programme, totalling 180 ECTS, the possibility to earn the extra 60 ECTS allowing them to earn a total of 120 ECTS (including the second cycle programme Theatre and Radio Directing) required for completion of a Master’s degree.
Candidates who have completed a first cycle programme totalling 180 ECTS and wish to enrol in the second cycle programme of Theatre and Radio Directing are required to submit a written request stating their wish to earn the extra 60 ECTS. Requests which are to be submitted at the student administration office are assessed individually by the Department of Theatre and Radio. Candidates are assigned a list of extra requirements according to their previous knowledge level and competencies. The applications are dealt with by the Study Board of the Academy and by the Senate of the Academy. The latter will issue a list of requirements to be completed. Candidates will fulfil the extra requirements to earn 60 ECTS in the course of life-long learning programme, and will be issued a formal note to certify that they have passed all requirements. Candidates who have earned the extra 60 ECTS are allowed to enrol to study Theatre and Radio Directing provided they fulfil other entry requirements as well.

Candidates are eligible to take the talent test prior to their earning of the extra 60 ECTS.

Rules and Guidelines on taking the aptitude test and its compulsory contents, which the candidates are required to draft and submit in line with the Rules and Guidelines to the Academy of Theatre, Radio, Film and Television, are available to the public via AGRFT website each year from the exact date of the official start of the call for applications. Moreover, the information regarding the enrolment requirements is available at the AGRFT study administration office.

A successfully passed aptitude test is valid for the ongoing year of study. After one year, the unsuccessful candidates are eligible to retake the aptitude test.

Upon submission of their application, all candidates are required to attest their Slovenian language proficiency at the B2 level according to The Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR), and to present a certificate thereof. The certificates to attest the candidate’s fulfilment of this enrolment requirement are as follows:

Brief presentations of the individual subjects

Contemporary dance theories
The aim of the course is to study contemporary dance as a hybrid field, consisting of philosophy, history, cultural anthropology, aesthetics and cultural dance studies along with psychoanalytical, semiotic, poststructuralist and feminist approaches. Contemporary dance is part of a broader field of dance studies and is treated as an independent discipline, emancipated from the discourses of theatre and music. It is explored as a heterogeneous field of research of movement and physicality, and its relationship to other arts, media and cultural practices.

Contemporary Performing Arts I
The aim of the subject is to introduce the student to the understanding of the contemporary performing arts in the globalized, multicultural world. It is mainly directed into:
- their exploration from the intermedial, interdisciplinary, intercultural and international perspectives;
- understanding of their (self-)reflexive, art historian and sociopolitical bases;
- development of independent thinking directed into research and artwork creation.

Contemporary performing arts II
Students build on the basic knowledge acquired in the subject Contemporary Performing Arts I. The subject is conceived as a research of a selected contemporary phenomenon from the field of the performing arts, dealt with in a wider social context. It directs the students into independent research work, interdisciplinary procedures leading towards reflection and development of artistic ideas. It encourages creative connections between theory and practice.

Costume design II/1
The students get to know the significance and possibilities of costume design as part of the overall visual image and as a co-creative part of the concept of an artistic project. They understand the function and purpose of each individual costume and all the costumes within different performances.
They get to know the possibilities offered by costume design as a fine art and semantic category, and also learn to select, evaluate, use and develop those possibilities.

Subject-specific competencies:
- A knowledge of the types of clothing and behaviour in relation to political, social and technological factors in different historical periods and geographical areas.
- Understanding the connection between clothes and costumes with the material culture in a broader sense and with fine arts in a narrower sense.
- Understanding the connections between and mutual influence of clothing, costumes, literature, drama and performing.
- A knowledge of various theatre and film practices and direction procedures.
- Understanding the psychophysical structure of costume.

Costume Design II/2

Theoretical part:
- Semantics of attiring: psychological and sociological analysis of dramatis personae,
- Costume design as visual art: psychology of detection; colour, shape, structure and texture,
- Costume and make-up,
- Specificity of costume-related solutions for various AV-media: theatre, dance, music or puppet theatre, ballet, opera, film, television, video, performance etc.

Practical part: practical classes and seminar
- Authenticating and exploring theoretical comprehension in connection with practical work on theatre, film, television etc. productions,
- Preparation of portfolio.

Experimental and avant-garde approaches

Hermeneutics

Knowing and understanding the historical development of hermeneutics within the context of historical development of film theory.

In-depth understanding of the hermeneutic method.

Course-specific competences include:
- Raising the awareness of the applicability of hermeneutics,
- Familiarising with the theoretical and philosophical background of hermeneutics.

Lighting design II/1

Types of stage lights. Shape, direction, intensity, colour and movement of light. Terminology of lighting and its successive phases. Light positions, lighting the scene and light exposure of the actor, dancer, etc.

Various lighting methods – flexible and static, structure and texture of the illuminated object, light and shadow.

Creating an atmosphere. Dramaturgy of light modifications.

Special light effects.

Design and implementation of a lighting project based on a student’s original idea.

Narratology

Thoroughly getting to know narrative theories and the operation of the narrative structures in various narrative forms and genres.

Subject-specific competencies:
- in-depth knowledge and understanding of the structure and function of the narrative in film,
- ability of in-depth theoretical analysis of film narratives.

New media scriptwriting
The basic aim of the subject is to get the student acquainted with scriptwriting for the new media emerging over the last few years – internet, game, mobile ones.

Subject-specific competencies:
- knowledge of the properties of the new media;
- ability to adapt the scriptwriting approaches to these new media.

Open platform III
The subject is intended for theoretical study of selected art questions, notions and phenomena. It offers students specialised knowledge which sheds further light on and expands the contents of the lectures at the AGRFT. It encourages students towards theoretical reflection and interdisciplinary approach towards performance studies.

Performance
The course offers the possibility of entering the field of performative practices, or performance, both in theory and practice. First, the students absorb a theoretical (partly historical) overview of the cases of a conceptualisation process. This functions as an initiative phase in performance production which is a result of a cultural and socio-political »diagnosis« and prognosis. This is followed by studying various procedures and approaches to the formulation of a performed idea, including a set of performative material (documentary, pre-processed, original), and ultimately by the activation of a team of collaborators, and a practical placement of a production in a concrete and »material« production space or context.

Performing Arts, Literature and Visual Culture M
Students learn about different forms of modern European and non-European writing for theatre, and interpret them in relation and connection to visual culture. They are acquainted with essential theoretical approaches to explore a heterogeneous field of theatre, literature and visual culture (semiotics, theatre anthropology, post-structuralism and deconstruction, gender studies, psychoanalytic theory and performance studies). They explore the dynamics of relationships between textual, performative and visual culture, and learn about the multimedia nature of contemporary performing and visual sphere. The course is designed as theoretical training in a specific integration of literature, theatre and performing practices in the phenomenon of visual culture.

The History of Drama M
Based on their personal preferences, students develop their in-depth familiarity of specific problems of the emergence of dramatic texts in certain periods within national literatures, as well as of stylistic formations by individual playwrights, and explore the problems that are only mentioned and hinted at in reference literature. The course is based on selected chapters and themes of world drama with particular emphasis on the 20th and 21st centuries drama output and the authors who have left an indelible impression on changed style formations, drama principles and dramaturgical theories on playwriting. In addition, the students explore the relationship between a dramatic text and other media (literary, theatrical and non-theatrical). They look for their specific features and interpret play scripts that are no longer dramatic in all their dimensions, from their text base to performance and multimedia.

The History of Theatre M
The aim of the subject is a problem-oriented treatment of selected chapters and themes from the field of theatre history.
The competencies developed by the subject are:
- the ability of historical analysis of theatre phenomena;
- understanding the historical processes marking the development of the art of theatre;
- knowledge of key achievements, artists and directions in theatre art;
- understanding the connections between theatre and other arts and mediums.

Theatre directing M
Under supervision, the student develops the idea of his or her own project, questioning it in different contextual relations. The transfer of the idea into a conceptual outline, directed towards a staging, a realisation in stage space. Anticipation of the impact and reception of the viewer (defining a style, aesthetic expression). Choosing a working method, acting techniques, general communication method, and ways of working with other creative staff members. Special emphasis is given to the director’s working with the actors.

Master’s thesis – Theatre directing (Individual project 1)
The student nears completion of his or her project and enters into creative author-like relationships with artistic team members: the co-worker on the concept/idea (dramaturg), co-authors (set designer, costume designer, music score composer, video author ...), and other team members (language consultant/voice coach ...). In the process of discussions, rehearsal schedule is being devised. The student completes and defines his or her idea of the stage performance using a higher threshold of “practicality”: a realisation plan must be designed (performance venue, time, manner, procedures ...), and essentially, casting must be completed.

Master’s thesis – Theatre directing (Individual project 2)
The student enters a practical process of theatre rehearsals with his/her cast members putting into practice the idea and plan of the staging. After the defined schedule and timeline, he or she leads the team towards its final aim: a public performance. In rehearsals, the director’s ideas and their implementation are being verified. The focus is two-fold: organisation of the rehearsal process and working with the actors, as well as a reception of the performance after the premiere and its contact with the audience.

Master’s thesis – Radio directing (Individual project 1)
The student draws near the completion of his or her project, determining its genre, and enters into a creative relationship with his/her artistic team members. Through discussions, the rehearsal schedules and other deadlines are being defined. The student completes and defines his or her idea of the performance in view of a higher threshold of “practicality”: an implementation plan must be set (performance venue, time, manner, procedures ...), and casting must be completed in order to bring the project to a completion under the tutor’s supervision.

Master’s thesis – Radio directing (Individual project 2)
Individually, the student enters a concrete practical working process with his/her cast members and production team. According to a schedule and timeline, he or she leads the team towards its final aim: public performance. During rehearsals, the identity of plan and its practical realisation are being verified. The focus is two-fold: organisation of the procedure and work with the actor and team, as well as reception of the performative product in contact with the listeners. Before and after the working process, the student supervises a theoretical and promotional follow-up of the creative project.

Radio directing M
Under supervision, the student develops the idea of his/her original project, testing it in diverse contextual relations. The transfer of the idea into a concept, directed towards performance – sound phenomenon. Anticipation of the impact with, and reception of the listener. Choosing the working method, acting and sound techniques, general communication and manner of work with co-workers, whereby special emphasis is placed on communicating the sound image between the author and the listener. The student is being trained in the formation of a “director’s concept”, an idea or text realisation schedule to set it into the sound space, and learns about diverse areas of sound creativity in view of the creative and technological procedures. Moreover, the students are trained in the dubbing of full length feature and animated foreign language films.

Radio directing 1
Under supervision, the student develops his/her original project idea, verifying it in diverse contextual relations. The transfer of the idea into a concept, directed towards performance – a sound phenomenon. Anticipation of the impact with, and reception of the listener. Choosing the working method, acting and sound techniques, general communication and with his/her co-workers, whereby special emphasis is placed on the communication of the sound elements being exchanged between the author and the listener.
